Access to Continuous glucose monitoring (CGM) through the NDSS:

Subsidised access to CGM products is open to:

- People with type 1 diabetes and;
- Children and young people with conditions very similar to type 1 diabetes who require insulin.

To gain access to subsidised CGM, the individual will need to be assessed by an authorised health professional to determine if they meet specific eligibility criteria.

The eligibility categories and criteria are listed on the CGM Eligibility Assessment form, available at www.ndss.com.au/cgm

A CGM Access form cannot be accepted by an Access Point. It must be submitted as per the instructions on the form.

CGM sensors and transmitters can be ordered through NDSS Access Points.

CGM sensors are available in boxes of one, three or five, depending on the model.

CGM transmitters are supplied individually, and will operate for three months or 12 months, depending on the model.

Copayments for all CGM products are equivalent, and the individual differences reflect the different sensor lifespan and pack size for individual products.
